

Multiplier event report (Spain)

Date of the report: 22/03/2022

Date of event: 21/03/2022

Prepared by: University of Huelva

Objectives of the event

The aim of the multiplier event of the A Chance 4 Chance Project organized by the University of Huelva (Spain) was to disseminate the work carried out and the results achieved regarding the objectives set by the project, as well as to highlight the social relevance of some of the lines of research and topics addressed by the project, such as restorative justice and gender-based violence.

From these general topics, experts in the field belonging to the Agora Group of University of Huelva, a research group participating in the project on behalf of the Spanish team, had the opportunity to present interesting contributions related to the need to promote training and critical media literacy, which allows people to deal with the challenges and problematic situations arising from youth violence, with the aim of achieving a proper restorative justice. In this way, participants emphasized the role of teachers, the family and the young people themselves, highlighting the ways of relationships that exist today in society through digital media such as, for example, social media, as well as the consequences that may arise if these platforms are not used responsibly or appropriately. Also, based on the results of a study on Instagram, there was a debate on the regulations of social media, algorithms and discriminatory content appearing in digital platforms and how these contribute to promote hate speech.

Agenda

The International University of Andalusia hosted, on March 21, the Multiplier Event Project C4C Spain at the headquarters of Santa Maria de La Rabida.

Chance for change (C4C) is an Erasmus + Project in which the Agora Group collaborates, combining media literacy and restorative justice. This project, which addresses gender violence and discrimination, is aimed primarily at professionals in the formal and informal education of young people (programme / agenda in Annex 1).

The day began at 9:30 a.m., with a welcome to the attendees by the Project Manager in Huelva, Dr. Ángel Hernando, who introduced the event and the first speaker, FPU Professor at the University of Huelva, Arantxa Vizcaíno-Verdú. The aim of this first intervention was to present the work developed around the objectives and lines of the Project: restorative justice and gender violence. In this way, the main results of IOS and actions developed within the framework of "C4C" were highlighted, both nationally and internationally, exposing the following resources developed throughout the project: "Multiplier Event Spain. A Chance 4 Chance: Empowerment and Restoration".

In this first speech, attendees were invited to participate actively during the event through social media, using the hashtag #EventoC4C. A specific form was also shared so that participants could evaluate aspects such as the organization, content or their satisfaction with the event.

Then, at 10:00 a.m., the second presentation was given by two professors from the University of Huelva, Dr. Ángel Hernando and Dr. Antonio Daniel García, entitled "Prevention of gender violence in youth". During this speech, they highlighted the main causes, actions and consequences with respect to gender violence that take place nowadays in society among young people. Based on the explanation of specific experiences and training from a psychological perspective, the keys to try to overcome this social problem and achieve a restorative justice for the victims were presented, without forgetting the important work that should be done with the perpetrators. These speeches were focused on where to direct the change in favor of the detection, reduction and/or prevention of violence. After the presentation of both speakers, questions from the audience raised an interesting debate, which allowed to reflect on the role of media literacy and academic institutions at all stages of the education system. Topics such as bullying, cyberaddiction, cyberbullying, the problematic use of social media or the use of sexist, controlling and toxic attitudes were some of the most discussed topics.

Finally, the lecture by Sabina Civila, FPI Professor at the University of Huelva, focused on "Hate speech through hashtags: Instagram and discriminatory content". The aim of this study, presented during "The RJ4ALL Annual International Conference" held last January in London, was to analyze publications with discriminatory content under the hashtag #stopislam, whose results show that the platform allows the visibility of this kind of content. The conclusions emphasize that the population should be aware of the social media's reporting tools to denounce publications with discriminatory content, avoiding sharing them in order to stop their dissemination.

The event concluded with a closing speech by Dr. Ángel Hernando (Project Manager from the University of Huelva), and Dr. Ignacio Aguaded (Project Manager of the Agora Research Group) at 11.15 a.m. (Spain).

Organisation

How the event was disseminated

The event was disseminated through the social media of the Agora research group, as well as through the personal profiles of some of its members. Several publications were shared live during the development of the event through the Twitter account of the research group: <https://twitter.com/GrupoUhu>

Information about the event was also shared through e-mails to researchers, students and academic experts in the field.

The event was disseminated through a web page created by the Spanish group, where the program and photographs were posted: <https://yougrammersid.wixsite.com/evento-multiplicador>

Notebooks with pens were also designed, printed and distributed to those attending the event, which included a QR with direct access to the C4C Project website.

How pre-registration took place

Attendance was free of charge and no prior registration was required.

Location and facilities booked

The multiplier event of the C4C Spain Project took place at the International University of Andalusia (Spain) at the Sede Santa Maria de La Rabida (<https://www.unia.es/es/sedes/la-rabida>), in the Educom Master Classroom.
